Our first stop will be at the Conrad Caldwell House Museum, a magnificent Richardsonian Mansion on St. James Court, built between 1892 and 1895. Also known as "Conrad's Castle," this is one of the most stunning of Old Louisville's houses. Walk around it and enjoy its gargoyles, swags, massive arches and fleur-de-lis. Inside you will find breathtaking woodwork, stained glass and fixtures. After your tour we will step over to the St. James Court Art Show.

The St. James Court Art Show is a juried fine arts and fine crafts show. Always held the first full weekend in October, it hosts an impressive 750 artists from North America. Held in the heart of historic Old Louisville among the country's largest collection of Victorian homes, the St. James Art Show has for over five decades provided the neighborhood, city, and state with a rich cultural and artistic legacy.
